

Those who want to participate in an FCC auction must submit a Form 175 (short form). This form provides the FCC with information about the applicant and the licenses on which the applicant wants to bid. It also provides ownership information.

The FCC accepts new Form 175s during the initial filing period for an auction. Applicants may correct or modify anything on the form and submit it as many times as required during this period. These forms are not made public until the initial filing period ends.

During the subsequent resubmission period, applicants may make minor modifications to their Form 175. Minor modifications include adding an attachment or making a change to the applicant's address, phone or fax number, status, names of bidders, or contact information. Modifications to other information WILL NOT be permitted.

Searching for Applications

You can use the Form 175 application search screen to find Form 175 submissions for many past auctions. The search tool enables you to enter a wide range of criteria and enables you to download sets of results.

Support and Software Requirements

If you are having trouble accessing the filing system, want to learn about the Form 175 software requirements, or have comments or questions about Form 175, please visit our online technical support.

Form 175 Logon

In order to submit a Form 175 application for an upcoming auction, you must logon to the Form 175 system. If already registered in CORES, you can logon using your FRN as your User ID and its associated password from that system. If you do not have an FRN number and password, you must register in CORES before logging on to the system.
